God Bless America—

The tragic turn of events in recent weeks has had a dramatic effect on the lives of all us Americans. Our prayers and thoughts go out to those most directly affected. We all know repercussions are coming but meanwhile, we must get on with our lives. Life is too short not to make the most of it. Besides if we give up, the terrorists win.

Les Deux Alpes—

If you have not already sent in your reservation and waiver forms, please do it now. If you signed up and haven't received your package, please call us immediately.

This trip was sold out but we were able to add a few more rooms. Some of these double rooms can be used as a single for an additional $475. These rooms are very limited.

There are still openings on both the Paris and Costa del Sol extensions. We need to know now if you are planning to extend on your own (even if you are not sure of your return date. Statements will be sent out prior to your final payment deadline, December 10, 2001.

Big White—

If you have not already sent in your reservation and waiver forms, please do it now. If you signed up and haven't received your package, please call us immediately.

Big White still has a few openings, so if you or any of your friends are still interested in Big White, let us know asap. Extensions are not available for Big White. We will be sending out insurance information with your final statement just prior to your payment deadline, October 22, 2001.

Ski Season Kick Off—

There are a number of "Kick Off" activities planned in both LA (see page 5) and San Diego (page 6). The Dinner Dances are a blast and Catherine & I plan to be at both. We hope many of you will join us.

Also on tap are the annual ski shows and swaps. These events offer the opportunity to see & buy the latest (or older) equipment and to talk to ski resorts. Stop by our booth in LA for a Margarita. ■

MEMBER PROFILE

Sutter Kunkel

Sutter Kunkel began skiing in the late 30's on a pair of pine skis ordered from a Sears Catalog. At that time, skiing just a competition sport. Sut's vision of skiing was that it should be enjoyed by everyone.

In 1949, Sut founded and became the first president of Grindelwald Ski Club, and the following year originated the club's famous Ski Swap (the same Ski Swap that is now held at Ski Dazzle) which allowed skiers to buy and exchange equipment at a low cost. He developed an interest in the National Ski Patrol System (NSP) and served on the NSP at Mt. Waterman and Mt. Baldy from 1957-1974.

Sutter in Europe in 1962

Sut was the Far West Ski Association (FWSA) Vice President of Recreation for five years. It was during this time that he made what is perhaps his most significant contribution to the development of recreational skiing. He organized what was to become the Far West's largest and most popular single program — charter flights. The first flight took place in 1959, followed by two in 1960, six in 1961, and eight to ten flights in subsequent years. These flights were operated under the leadership of Sut and Will Martin and were entirely managed by volunteers from 1959 to 1963. Any profits from these trips were returned to the participants and used to send Olympic hopefuls to Europe for training.

An interesting aspect of the charter program was that FWSA grew from 3,000 mostly competition skiers to 10,000 mostly recreational skiers in just the first two years. This program was essentially the cornerstone of recreational programs which led to the development of FWSA into the largest and strongest regional ski organization in the United States.

In 1963, Sut was elected President of FWSA. During his presidency, he initiated the Proficiency Ski Test Program, a method of measuring a skier's capability of skiing diverse conditions and terrain. The program was adopted by USSA and all its divisions. He was also instrumental in developing a system of classifying ski runs with color identification for terrain difficulty. This program was adopted by the National Ski Areas Association and is still used today. ■

PUBLIC

AFFAIRS

by Catherine Ohl

Biathletes Called for War —

At least 20 athletes of the 35 or so who are considered hopefuls to represent the U.S. in Olympic biathlon events this February are expecting orders to be delivered by their Army and National Guard commanders. The athletes are training at Soldier Hollow with the U.S. Biathlon Team.

The biathletes have been training for the Olympics thanks to two programs that pay for their training in exchange for the athletes' service in the military. The U.S. Army World Class Athlete Program is one that is also paying the way for eight athletes training for bobsled and skeleton events. The National Guard has a separate, but similar, program and is sponsoring 10 of the affected biathletes.

Winter Park Candidates —

The Denver Mayor's office announced it had narrowed the field of candidates to become partners in helping run Winter Park Resort to East-West Partners, Inc., and Intrawest Corporation.

Intrawest and East-West Partners now have until November 9 to submit final proposals. The plan is to bring the resort up to snuff with other, more competitive privately owned resorts. It has been estimated that the resort needs an infusion of $61 million to make it a viable player for a market share of the skier dollars.

Gen-X Takes Over Volant —

Canada-based Gen-X Sports, Inc. announced it has acquired the Colorado-based ski maker, Volant, giving new life to the brand founded by former Olympian Hank Kashiwa. The steel-capped ski climbed to the number-five spot in the country last year from among 20 brands, pulling in $12 million in sales.

The brand suffered from high manufacturing costs and low cash flow of late despite its loyal following. Volant was forced to close its Colorado plant three weeks ago. The Gen-X acquisition is expected to provide Volant with the financial support it needs to continue building skis and develop some new technology.

NSGA Study Determines Sports Popularity —

A new study released by the National Sporting Goods Association (NSGA) assigns an index to 34 sports that are adjusted for population so participation can be compared state to state.

On the NSGA index, the national average for each sport equals 100. As a result, skiing shows up as most popular in some obvious and some surprising states. For example, skiing's index in Vermont is 358. The index for skiing in some other states where it far exceeds the national average is 157 in California, 184 in Colorado, 316 in New Hampshire, 257 in North Dakota, 164 in Virginia. ■

Fitness — ACL Injury Help

from http://www.langerr.com/index_rrsv9l.html

The incidence of anterior cruciate ligament (ACL) tears of the knee amongst alpine skiers has remained somewhat static for the last ten seasons.

It would appear that no single piece of ski equipment (Ski, boots, bindings) is solely to blame in the mechanism of an ACL injury. With regard to ski boots, what is known is that increased boot cuff stiffness can place an increased load on the ACL, especially in the event of a skier's falling backwards.

The 2000/2001 winter season saw the introduction of the RRS V9 rear release system boot by Lange. The boot incorporates a novel adjustable mechanism in the cuff of the boot which releases backwards in the event of an excessive load to the back of the boot.

Importantly, the RRS system was independently tested and they found that the system did work as claimed and was a welcome development in the protection of the ACL. May be worth checking out. ■

by Gene Fulkerson

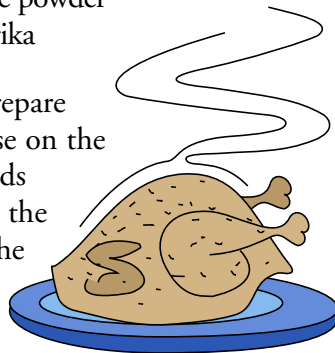

It's A Turkey!

15-20 pound turkey
5 gal canola or peanut oil

Seasoning mixture—

1/3 small jar cajun seasoning
1/2 tsp garlic salt
1/2 tsp garlic powder
1/2 tsp paprika

Mix the seasonings. Next prepare the bird. Break the skin loose on the turkey by running your hands under the skin starting with the neck area and gently force the separation to the other end. Do the same on the butt side for the turkey. You are now ready to generously coat the inner layer with the seasoning mixture. You can do this the evening before cooking.

Gently drop the turkey in the hot oil. Cook for no more than 3 minutes a pound.

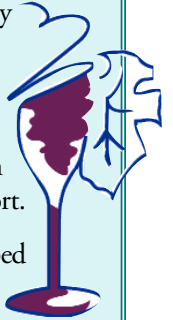

Gizzard, liver and kidney can be sauteed in garlic butter with a good Pinot Noir. Serve Turkey with garlic mashed potatoes, gravy, chilled cranberries and your favorite dressing made separately (not in the bird). ■

WINE MAKER DINNER

The Wine Maker Dinner to support the Jimmie Heuga Center was a superb and raised $850. Dinner started with Brie Cheese topped with strawberry jam accompanied by Piper Sonoma Champagne. Appetizers were followed by an exotic green salad with feta, walnuts and avocado topped with a sesame dressing. This course was complimented by RH Phillips Toasted Head Chardonnay.

Our first entrée was a poached fresh king salmon in tarragon with asparagus and Hollandaise Sauce with BV Beauzeaux. During a break between entrées, Billy Kidd called to thank us for our support.

Our second entrée was New Zealand venison topped with a black raspberry reduction sauce served with roasted garlic potatoes. The Valley of the Moon Syrah matched this course perfectly. Dessert was a raspberry decadent torte served with St. Francis Merlot.

A special thanks to everyone who contributed— Lee & Phil Harris, Jo Henry, Nora, Barbara Blaze, Patricia Ortiz, Michael German, John & Claudia Watson, Sammy Jo Riley, Eileen & Mike Sanford, Claudia Courtney, Linda & Mark Mathis, Catherine Ohl and our excellent chef Gene Fulkerson. We plan to make this an annual event. ■

SKI HISTORY

The history of Southern California skiing is peopled with a cast of characters and events as colorful as any to set foot on a Hollywood sound stage.

Downtown Los Angeles—

There were men like Vicki (Ludvig) Hasher, a Bavarian import who found his way to Los Angeles in 1927 and hooked up with a group of Norwegians who called themselves the Viking Ski Club of Los Angeles. But perhaps the most memorable contribution Hasher made to the sport was his novel way of introducing skiing to new fans. Somehow Hasher convinced the people at the May Company department store to install a ski slide high atop their building in downtown Los Angeles.

The slide was sprinkled with rice hulls, borax and salt and was 15 feet wide and 84 feet long. The slide had less than a 16-foot vertical drop. That was back in 1937 when the May Company was selling an assortment of hickory and maple skis for $4.95 to $25. Poles started at $1.95 and bindings at $2.95. Boots sold for the princely sum of $6.95 to $18.50. ■

BIG WHITE UPDATE

Big White Ski Resort, located in the heart of Canada's British Columbia, is attracting a lot of attention these days. With ski-in/ski-out accommodations, state of the art lifts, plenty of snow and a beautiful alpine village, Big White has everything you would expect from a world class Resort.

Big White has increased its advanced and expert terrain by 25% with the addition of four new runs on a hundred acres of gladed terrain called, appropriately, "Never-Neverland."

There are only a few spots remaining for this LA Council's Ski Week to this fabulous resort. Sign up today before all our spots are gone! ■

SNOWBOARD STRIP

Now that it's become apparent there's such a thing as women, and that some of these women snowboard, the snowboard market has been flooded with equipment made specifically for females. But with so many new boards to choose from, what's a girl to do?

Transworld Snowboarding took it upon themselves to sort through 25 of this year's women's freestyle (park and pipe) boards and narrow the field down to those most worthy of checking out.

After a series of tests more vigorous than those on Survivor, and much deliberation, the year's top five women's freestyle boards surfaced. They are Chorus Determination, K2 Mix, Rossignol Diva, Salomon Ivy, and Sims Tara Dakides.

But just because you're a goddess, you don't have to ride a board specifically made for women. Some boards worth a look are Airwalk Champ 153, Allian Ingemar Backman 152, and Ride Exile 153. ■
